PHYSICALLY

Hundreds of students ride the orange school buses to and from school every day.

This year has brought many changes in both our school and ourselves. High Point Central High has grown in size with a new wing, just as we have grown in mind, body, and spirit this past year. Within these pages is captured the commemorative record of the past year.

We developed physically by attending physical education classes where we spent an enjoyable hour perfecting some particular skill. Some of us participated in school sports, enabling Central High to compete with neighboring schools.

As we undertook new subjects, we acquired a considerable amount of knowledge. Although at the time it was hard for us to believe that all this learning was worthwhile, we managed to store our minds with knowledge for both the present and the future.

The 3:30 bell did not end our connection with Central High for the day. We had club or committee meetings to attend, projects to carry out, and ball games to attend, where we cheered our teams on to victory. These and other activities brought us together with our friends and fellow students and enabled us to exchange ideas and opinions.

The morning devotion always assured us of at least one peaceful moment before our school day began. We could also depend on an inspiring thought on the board every day.

Students welcome lunch period as a time to participate in conversation with fellow students.

Weejuns, a fad that has hung on, have become a teenage symbol.

Students find time to get together and talk about the events of the day.

It was easy for us to leave our worries on the doorstep when we were met by friendly greetings and smiling faces at Central High each day. We will always remember the hurried conversations with our friends before the morning bell, during the five minutes between classes, or after lunch. Memories of our friends will always be linked with club meetings we attended, work we did as a service to our school, speeches we wrote for N.F.L. or maybe going to that favorite game where, win or lose, we knew Central High excelled in school spirit.

With contagious enthusiasm, spectators become an important part of a game.

Students in Mrs. Roberts' homeroom spend time before first period catching up on the "latest" or getting in a few minutes of extra studying.

The driving spirit of this basketball player can overcome stubborn opposition.

Physical education classes provided recreation for sophomore boys and girls. Calisthenics began a period of both team and individual sports.

During the fall months, football and speedball were major sports; but as colder weather came, volleyball and basketball activities were moved inside the gymnasium. At last the warm spring days arrived, and classes again moved outside. Track and softball became the rage.

Interscholastic competition included football, basketball, track, baseball, tennis and wrestling. Players and spectators alike displayed school spirit and good sportsmanship.

Tully Crockett, Joy Purcelle, Anne Southerland, and Jane Snotherly show by their expressions the anticipation of defeating the Whirlies.

Girls' physical education classes gain knowledge of health rules and the fundamentals of sports.

Acquiring knowledge, understanding, and, eventually, wisdom—these were the common goals of students at High Point Central High School during the 1962-63 school year. The curriculum which the school offered added much to our store of knowledge and augmented our appreciation of learning. Association and fellowship with friends and acquaintances increased our understanding immeasurably. Wisdom, which one can never fully attain, comes as a result of a lifetime of learning, not only through organized study but also through experience.

The efficiency of a shorthand student is increased by daily practice.

These girls are eager to learn the household arts that a course in home economics gives them.

through our quest for truth

Mrs. Poston and Mr. Sheffield remain in the library often after school to aid students with research.

To become a well-rounded individual, one must be vigilant in his search for both scientific and spiritual truth. Through study, reading, experimentation, and research, he achieves scientific truth in all fields of learning. Through a study of literature, through dedicated living and insight, he arrives at spiritual truth. Thus the four-fold development of the personality is completed; the individual has learned "the truth that shall make him free," and is ready to take his place as a worthy member of society.

WE DEDICATE:

Miss Young and Patty Lewis work hand-in-hand to put out the Pointer.

The class of '63 would like to express their gratitude to Miss Eleanor Young for the never-ending devotion she has given to her position as English teacher, as adviser to the Pointer, and as chairman of the English department. Because of her vivid descriptions and lucid explanations of English authors and their works, students enjoyed a deeper appreciation of their Old World heritage. She is the woman "behind the scenes" who devotes many hours both during school and after school to the guidance and supervision of the Pointer editorial staff. It is, therefore, with sincere gratitude and real affection that we dedicate this 1963 edition of the Pemican to Miss Eleanor Young, teacher, adviser, and friend.

ADMINISTRATION

Members of the High Point City School Board can remember 1962-63 as the year when they made additions at Brentwood, finished construction of the Kirkman Park School, and presented the new wing at Central High. In addition to the extensive building program, the Board named the school, developed new parking facilities, had charge of the individual student assignments, set the dates for the opening and closing of schools, and approved purchases of instructional materials and school supplies.

A new member of the Board this year was Mr. Clyde R. Carden, who replaced the late Mr. R. M. Campbell. Other members were Mr. John W. Clinard, Jr., Dr. Perry P. Little, Mr. W. H. Marlette, Mrs. Evelyn Thompson, Mrs. John A. Womack, and Mr. W. A. Tomlinson.

As superintendent of High Point City Schools, Dr. Dean B. Pruette continued his policy of long-range plans for problems that constantly beset a large and complex school system. He and the School Board completed three units of a building program begun early last year. As High Point grows, Dr. Pruette and the Board foresee needs and make definite plans to meet them.

Dr. Lloyd Y. Thayer, assistant superintendent of High Point City Schools, also served as director of instruction. He worked with principals and teachers to co-ordinate the instructional program in the city schools.

In his second year as principal of High Point Central High, Dr. W. J. Scott continued his work of organizing the school so that instruction in all departments could proceed with maximum smoothness and efficiency. With the completion of the new wing, Dr. Scott found adequate room space for 12 new teachers and many additional students.

Mr. Vance, genial and popular dean of students, examines records from his files—one of the many tasks of his school day.

A new counselor, Mrs. Janet R. McCurry, was added to the guidance staff in 1962-63, as counseling operations were moved to new quarters across from the main office. Mrs. McCurry joined Miss Frances Haywood and Mr. Ralph H. Vance in facing a new year filled with old and new problems.

Mrs. McCurry and Miss Haywood attended to personal problems of students, assisted seniors in college and vocational plans, supervised College Board Examinations, and worked with the PTA. Mr. Vance continued to brighten up the attendance office, taking on with experienced hands the multiple duties involved. In his position as dean, Mr. Vance often helped to locate job opportunities for boys.

Dean, counselors are helpful guides

Miss Frances Haywood is the friendly, efficient counselor to seniors.

Poised and gracious, Mrs. Janet McCurry prepares records for effective counseling of underclassmen students.

In the general office the secretaries, Mrs. Jackson and Mrs. Teague, with their helpers, kept business affairs moving smoothly.

Besides handling the money and managing the general office, Mrs. Jackson maintained her usual happy attitude toward her work. The esteem in which Mrs. Jackson is held in both school and community was recently attested when she was honored by the local newspaper as "High Pointer of the Week."

Mrs. Jackson and Mrs. Teague keep the business of the General Office moving smoothly.

Office staff renders efficient service

As treasurer of Central High, Mrs. Jackson writes her daily quota of checks to pay numerous bills.

Filling out transcripts for seniors is only one of the many duties performed by Mrs. Doris Teague, assistant secretary.

Mrs. Harrison's English II classes enjoy listening to recorded works related to their studies.

Mrs. Lyles' sophomore English classes divide into small discussion groups to compare their impressions.

CURRICULUM . . .

English students at Central High studied composition, grammar, and literature in both college preparatory and general English groups. Sophomores wrote themes, diagrammed sentences, made vocabulary lists, and read class selections from a general range of literature. Juniors studied grammar, wrote compositions, and read American literature, while seniors prepared term papers, made oral reports, memorized lines from "Macbeth," and read selections from English literature. Parallel reading and reference work in the library opened to all students vast areas of information.

English teachers, under the general supervision of Miss Eleanor Young, English department head, followed a new outline according to state standards.

Mrs. Rogers' English III classes visit the library regularly to check out books and to do research.

Basic courses emphasize communication

Latin students gained a valuable key to understanding Romance languages and English grammar, and at the same time developed an interest in, and an appreciation for, the ancient Greek and Roman cultures. The language was not studied for conversational purposes but for providing a basic knowledge of word roots and derivations. Clear, organized thinking was also encouraged by the course.

In 1962-63 Miss Goodman's speech class moved into a new laboratory that included specially-designed equipment for the development of good stage composure and dramatic speaking ability. The class studied extensively the United Nations, as well as parliamentary procedure and several types of dramatic interpretation. Members showed that they had achieved skill during the year by participating in speaking contests.

John Russell, Steve Deal, and Gilda Wright prepare orations on the United Nations to be judged by other members of Miss Goodman's speech class.

Miss Yutz's French I students practice pronouncing French vowels under her direction.

Studying languages and history extends

To accommodate a growing Modern Language department, space in the new wing was designed specifically for the instruction of foreign languages. Students had an ideal opportunity to extend their knowledge in a new environment. First-year French and Spanish pupils concentrated on basic grammar, vocabulary, and pronunciation, learning, in addition, some of the characteristics of French- and Spanish-speaking nations. Second-year students acquired more detailed knowledge of traditions, literature, geography and history; and third-year French classes made an exploration into the culture of France, becoming more familiar with French writers in the process. Students competed in both the State and National Language Examinations and presented a Language Day program.

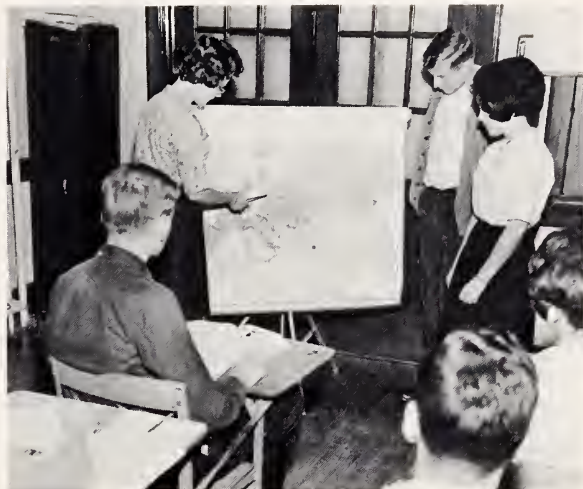

Miss Mourane, department head, spent the summer of 1962 studying in France.

Spanish II students enjoy articles in magazines and newspapers from different Spanish-speaking countries.

Students and teachers benefit from TV History because a wider range of objects relating to the lesson are displayed.

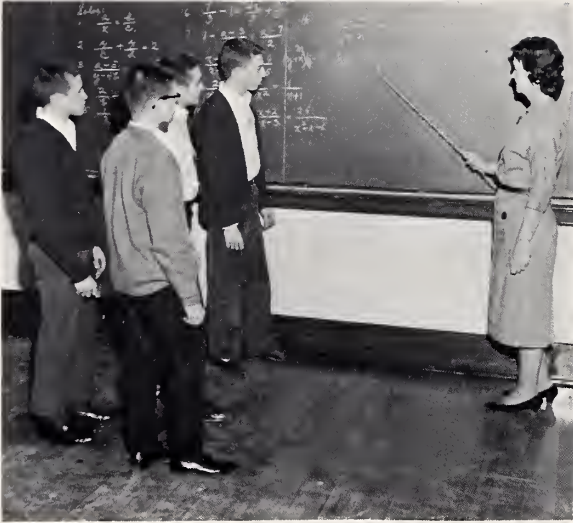

Miss Heath points out pre-revolutionary Europe to her World History class.

student understanding, broadens outlook

Students desiring to broaden their outlook and acquire a knowledge of the past for a better insight into the future found the social studies courses at Central High School both valuable and informative. To study the importance of historical progressions as well as the dramatic story of mankind, students enrolled in world history and in the required American history course. To learn the proper sequence and significance of historical developments as well as fundamental elements in our own nation's story, many interested students chose the elective course, Problems of American Democracy. Other students wishing to learn about the physical aspects of the United States enrolled in geography classes. Activities included parallel reading, daily news, book reports, oral reports, forums, editorial summaries, and class discussions. The publication EVERY WEEK provided up-to-the-minute data on local as well as national and international news-fronts.

Mr. Laughinghouse's geography classes construct projects showing their areas of study.

Mrs. Sowers explains a fractional equation as her students listen attentively.

Reid Marsh and Rocky Wright explain a proof to Mrs. Holder's plane geometry class.

Math and science courses stimulate

Robbie Culp demonstrates the use of a parallelogram in Mrs. Stephen's plane geometry class.

Mathematics students at Central High laid the foundations for life in a technical age by studying a complex and challenging science. Many sophomores ventured into their second year of algebra, while juniors and seniors pursued, disjunctively or in several combinations, plane geometry and the elective courses of solid geometry and trigonometry. The more industrious and advanced students wishing a third year of algebra took a college course. Students desiring proficiency and practical skill in the business administration aspect of mathematics took advantage of the general and business courses. Stocks and bonds, accounting, income tax reporting, and rapid calculation were included in the business mathematics studies.

Students pursuing advanced studies in mathematics had the opportunity to test their skills in mathematics and to gain recognition for themselves and for their school by taking part in the State Mathematics Examination. The examination covered the high school subjects of algebra and plane geometry.

New equipment for the physics lab is examined by David Parsons, Wayne Tuttle, Eddie Koonce, and Mr. Beane.

Central High's science department, located in the modern laboratories of the new wing, re-organized its program for teaching science in the space age. Long-awaited laboratory equipment for chemistry, physics, and physical science were welcome teaching aids. To sophomores, dissecting an earthworm, taking a field trip to locate elm leaves, looking through a microscope to find life in a drop of water—such new explorations made every biology class exciting. Juniors and seniors found chemistry, physics, and physical science equally alluring. Projects of notebooks, lectures, class discussions, experiments, and exploration of atomic and nuclear studies were a few of the activities designed to stimulate and develop a scientific attitude among students.

curiosity and scientific research

A pathetic look of anguish is on Janie McGuire's face as she thinks of cleaning up her untidy chemistry experiment.

Biology students in Miss Clement's class examine the scales of their fish before they dissect them.

Home ec and commercial studies build

Home ec practice teacher offers willing assistance to future homemakers.

Pleased home ec students and practice teachers admire their successful baking.

With streamlined equipment in the "practice home" quarters of the Home Economics department, Central High girls were able to get more complete courses in homemaking. They planned programs on child development, family relationships, money management, health and home safety, foods, clothing, and housing. Through lectures, class discussions, experiments, and practical projects, the girls learned to cook for their families, plan and make many useful garments, set a table properly, and plan and execute a tea for one hundred people. In addition, they learned the management of resources—time, energy, and money—as well as the techniques of housekeeping. These courses helped students to meet the realities of every day life and become trained for solving future problems.

skills for home and business success

More and more students at Central High planned for the future by taking business education courses. The clicking of typewriters sounded as flying fingers sought to achieve "sixty words a minute" in this basic course of business education. Meanwhile shorthand students were laboring faithfully to write "one hundred words a minute" and to read back what had been written. The intricacies of finance became familiar to book-keeping and accounting students, and smooth business letters were the products of Business English classes. Knowledge became practical when students learned to use a variety of office machines. A new course in economics provided a study of present-day practices in the world of trade and commerce.

The relationship between taxes and the growth of a country is explained to James Carter, Tommy Myers, and Kay Weininger by Mr. Cudd.

Mr. Cudd helps Jay Burton and Sandi Carter with their accounting.

Valuable skill is acquired by students as they master their keyboard.

Safety as well as skills is taught in Mr. Holder's industrial arts class.

Industrial arts classes offered a wide assortment of courses consisting of mechanical drawing, general and vocational shop, and metal work. Valuable teaching aids were added during the year, including a completed metal shop containing five welding booths with individual equipment and a new furnace capable of reaching a temperature of 2300 degrees.

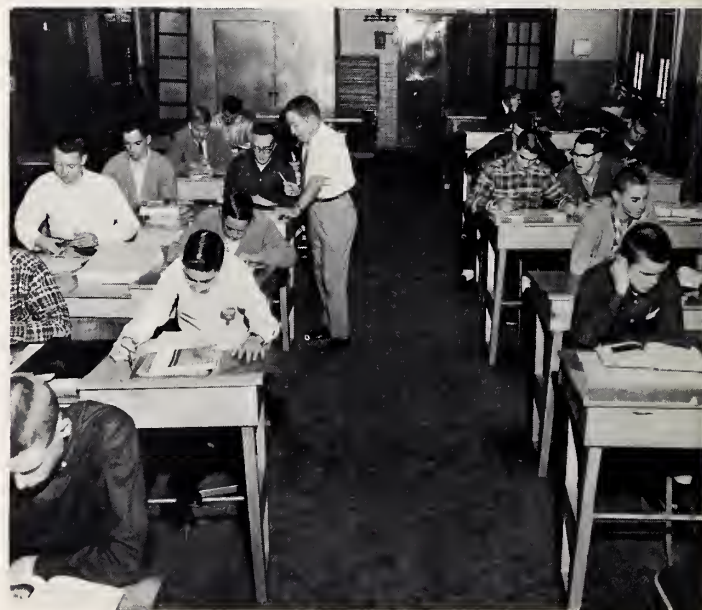

Students interested in the industrial field received valuable and practical experience in detailed drawing and designing, construction of prized articles of wood and metal such as lampstands, cedar chests, and bedroom suites. In the process the students acquired not only expert training and a workable knowledge of arts and crafts but also skills for future vocations whereby they might contribute their share for the advancement of themselves and their country.

Industrial arts create practical skills

Conscientious shop students observe Mr. Mann's woodworking skill.

Architectural design is studied by students in Mr. Bays' mechanical drawing class.

Mr. Myers gives students safety pointers before going out on the road in the Driver Training car.

Driver education stresses safe driving

Students are tested for their range of vision in Mr. Shields' Driver Education classes.

"Will I receive my driving license by the close of school?" This was the question that vexed many students in Driver Education classes as they learned to manipulate dual control cars in such practices as starting, stopping, backing, turning, parking, and driving in traffic on the street or on the highway. In previous classroom lessons, eager students had learned the regulations of driving and had taken tests for reaction time, steadiness, glare and color vision, depth perception, eye dominance, and visual acuity. Then with eighteen hours of "under the wheel" experience and a thorough mastery of the rules of safe driving, they were ready to pass their tests and become safer drivers on the highways of the state and nation.

Physical education

A rigorous calisthenics program is included as part of the physical education curriculum.

Girls' physical education at Central High this year was an active program—six classes of girls every day and various organized teams. Gymnastics, individual and team sports, including track, tennis, basketball, volleyball, speedball, soccer, and softball filled the athletic calendar and kept the girls' enthusiasm high. Muscular co-ordination and control, physical fitness, plus much fun-filled action were worthy outcomes of the girls' season of sports.

Supplying health-giving exercise for students of all needs and abilities was the goal of the boys' physical education department. Home room intramural contests, physical education classes, and the varsity athletic program all combined to build well-rounded, alert individuals. Specifically the program included the individual and team sports of football, basketball, wrestling, baseball, tennis, track, and golf. The students who enjoyed exercise or sought to develop muscular skills through participation in sports found many opportunities for such fun. They strove to build and maintain good sportsmanship both on the practice field and in competitive games. High interest in athletics and recreation prevailed, and the spirit of fair play upheld the ideals of the school.

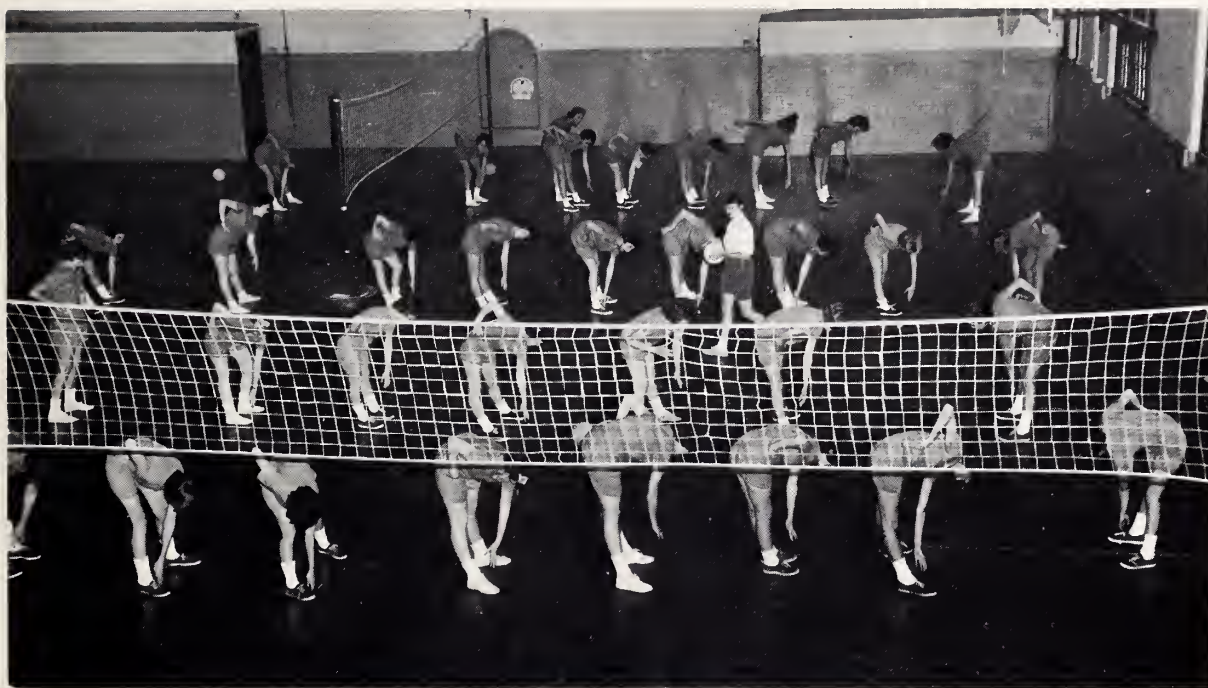

Boys learn methods of artificial respiration and other emergency measures in their first-aid class.

Tension heightens as the ball is tossed to start the game.

develops fitness, teaches sportsmanship

Gymnastics classes introduce the period of sports.

Less strenuous games such as shuffleboard give the individual a chance to display her ability.

Girls in Miss Hester's gym class participate in individual as well as team matches.

gives many concerts

Six public performances were presented by the Central High Orchestra in a very active season. Mr. Barry Ruth, assisted by Miss Virginia Frank, directed the group in its first concert in November. Highlighting this program were the selections "Night on Bald Mountain" and "South Pacific." The Christmas presentation inspired only the season's spirit as Handel's "Water Music," "Carol of the Drums," and "Christmas Festival" were played. A solo group from Woman's College, Greensboro, also appeared in the concert. Later in the season, members of the orchestra took part in the All-State and Piedmont orchestras, and the whole entourage competed in the State Music Festival at Woman's College.

Governing body for the Central High orchestra was composed of Betsey Price, president and also representative to the Inter-club Council; Brantley Kearns, vice-president; Susanna Bell, secretary and treasurer; and Kathy Murrow, member-at-large.

Musicians present inspiring programs

High Point Central Concert and Symphonic bands met three days a week to practice together as the Marching band, formed for the purpose of providing music for school and civic activities. The Marching band played and marched for football halftime shows, marched in the homecoming and Christmas parades, and gave several concerts. The group traveled to Charlotte in December to appear in the Shrine Bowl parade. Band members sold candy to purchase thirty new uniforms, including those for drum major and majorettes. The group also sponsored a dance for the music department, with a combo from its own ranks—"The Five Naturals"—as featured performers.

Marching band was governed by a council of representative members and its elected officers—Doug Lain, president; Steve Wood, vice-president; and Keith Yokely, secretary-treasurer. Mr. David Carter directed the band in all activities, while Doug Lain served as drum major.

BAND COUNCIL: Row 1—Lain, Wood, Demchak, Yokely. Row 2—Farmer, Proctor, Yow, Womack, Carter, Whitley, Clark.

DANCE BAND: Row 1—Torrence, Preddy, Yokely, Phipps, Montgomery. Row 2—Cheek, Farmer, Bowman, Epting. Row 3—Slate, Collins, Johnson, Carter, Knight, Lewis.

Dance band maintains musical excellence

Each day at seventh period the Dance Band practices under the direction of Mr. David Carter.

Accompanying the performers of the HPCHS talent show, performing for local civic clubs, providing music at many teenage dances were a few of the many activities of the Dance band. Under the direction of Mr. David Carter, the popular Dance band met every day during seventh period. Its fourteen members included the following: saxaphones, Keith Yokely, Mike Phipps, Ronald Preddy, Ricky Torrence, and Bob Epting; trumpets, Curtis Collins, Jimmy Johnson, John Slate; trombones, Benny Farmer, Bob Cheek, and Gray Bowman; drums, Jimmy Knight; bass, David Lewis; and piano, Tim Montgomery. Participation in the Dance band not only provided a way for the boys to earn extra money while in high school, but also acquainted them with the best popular music, past and present. To give everyone an opportunity to hear it perform, the band gave a jazz concert in the spring.

Concert, symphonic bands perform well

This year the band became too large for one period. From this group two bands, the Symphonic band which met at fourth period, and the Concert band which met at sixth period, were formed. While both groups were under the direction of Mr. David Carter, they both had a student government as well. The Band Council, which met weekly, governed both groups.

The Symphonic band and the Concert band had various activities this year, which carried out their purpose—to meet the student need for music. Assisting with several public performances, attending Band Day in the fall, and auditioning in Durham for the State band were a few of their many activities.

dy, Saunders, Flythe, Grayson, Mattocks, Allen, Caplonides, Holmes, Hedgecock, Sanders, Robb, Fowler, Loflin, Brannon, Bailey. Row 4—Proctor, Brown, White, Simpson, Smith, Welch, Carter, Horney, Humphrey, Johnson, Hutchens.

Choral groups gain

In their attractive navy blue jumpers, the advanced girls' chorus, known as the Choralettes, worked to perfect their vocal techniques and sight-reading ability. In addition to performances at many civic clubs and school functions, the Choralettes helped to spread the Yuletide spirit by singing in the Christmas concert. Along with other choral groups, the Choralettes sang for the baccalaureate service at graduation.

Like the Choralettes, the A Cappella choir had a worthy goal—perfection. To reach this goal, they used many hours of practice. Activities included singing in assembly, at civic club luncheons, and in several concerts. The A Cappella choir also participated in the activities of the Festival Chorus in Greensboro and of the N. C. Choral Workshop. At commencement, A Cappella members provided music for the graduation exercises.

Cherishing an ambition to advance in their choral music, the girls' chorus mastered the main difficulties to be overcome by singers and learned to sing dozens of songs. In assemblies and in the Christmas program, the chorus joined with the A Cappella choir in presenting a repertoire of inspiring music. In classes the chorus worked to improve vocal techniques.

Now in their third year of musical endeavor, the Boys' Octet continued to improve group singing techniques and to delight their many audiences with musical programs. They met on Monday nights, learned new music, and worked toward their goal of musical perfection. At Christmas they joined with other choral groups in singing a group of cherished Christmas carols.

BOOK TWO

Classes . . .

That welcomed 3:30 bell . . .

The easy atmosphere of the cafeteria is a pleasant break in the "monotonous" day of the students.

Students hurry up and down tower in an effort to reach class on time.

School is classes! Central High School is three classes—sophomores, juniors and seniors. This aggregate of individuals forms the backbone of all activities of the school. With zest and youthful enthusiasm, the sophomores began the school year as newcomers to Central High. The novelties of class meetings and election of class officers kept their enthusiasm high. Busy schedules and extra-curricular activities balanced their time and energy and made each day a brand-new adventure.

The juniors, too, had a year filled with zestful activities. Full schedules of academic and business courses plus many activities taught them to budget their time and energy wisely. They chose red-stoned class rings, produced a class play, and made plans for a prom. As they passed the half-way mark in their high school education, they thought about plans for college and what to do after graduation.

To seniors, the year 1962-63 was the most glorious year at Central High School, for it gave each member a more mature attitude toward life and its responsibilities. Class members played star roles in every phase of Central High School and its activities. They produced a class play and sponsored a unique mascot contest. With the wisdom born of experience, the seniors looked forward to the future whether it be a college education, a new job, or the armed forces.

As leaders in school organizations and athletic contests, the seniors of 1963 actively participated in every phase of school life. The class officers—Eddie Lewis, president; Jerry Lawson, vice-president; Betsey Price, secretary; and Liz Rives, treasurer—worked with the Senior Executive Board and Miss Frances Haywood, adviser, in preparing many of the outstanding features of the year. These activities included electing the Senior Class Mascots, choosing senior superlatives, and planning and executing the Junior-Senior prom and the Senior banquet. In addition, the class produced a highly successful play, entitled "The Show-Off." Awards Day, with all its excitement and suspense, added to the year's success.

The members of the Class of 1963 leave High Point Central High School, but the spirit of the pursuit of knowledge and the lasting friendships found in this school will continue to be a part of their lives.

Miss Haywood is available at all times to counsel and advise members of the senior class.

The Class of 1964

A. J. Simeon—Junior Class adviser.

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS: Brooks Reitzel, president; Bobby Gray, vice-president; Debby Wall, secretary; Barbara Myers, treasurer.

In preparation for future leadership, the juniors began the year's work with zeal and enthusiasm. Class elections were held in the fall, and out of this contest Brooks Reitzel was elected president; Bobby Gray, vice-president; Debby Wall, secretary; and Barbara Myers, treasurer. Under the leadership of these officers and their capable adviser, Mr. Simeon, the class members selected red stones for their class rings. The annual junior play was the main class project for the year. Under the direction of Miss Eleanor Tapp and Mrs. Barbara Laughinghouse, the dramatic group presented "The Green Vine," a sparkling comedy, on November 16 and 17. For the Homecoming celebration juniors chose Debby Wall as class attendant. Later in the year, class members assisted in the production of the Talent Show and had a major part in presenting the annual Junior-Senior prom.

A portion of the class was received as members of the Beta Club in October, and in March a group was inducted into the National Honor Society. Juniors were especially happy to have as a class member Alexis Hautefeuille, an exchange student from France.

With the opening of the 1962-63 school-year, another group of sophomores entered the portals of Central High. After mastering the problem of finding their way around the building, class members settled down to the year's work. Supervised by Miss Neely, class adviser, the sophomores launched a successful magazine sale in October. Top individual salesmen and high homerooms received valuable prizes. Profits from the sale were used to finance a prom and to pay for the class section in the Pemican. In November, tenth graders held their class election, choosing as officers Bill Southerland, president; Roger Taylor, vice-president; Andi Marsden, secretary; and Bobbie Helm, treasurer. As the weeks and months passed, sophomores became members of clubs, musical organizations, and councils. Those who were athletically inclined went out for football, basketball, track, golf, wrestling, and tennis. By the close of the year sophomores realized that they were an important part of Central High.

ORGANIZATIONS . . .

Dedicated to presenting a true picture of school life at High Point Central High School, the 1963 Pemican, edited by Sandra Barrier, with Geri Buck as associate editor, was based on the theme—"Growth." Counseled by Miss Louise Tapp, the editorial and business groups consisted of 37 members. Susanna Bell served as picture editor; Kathy Murrow, art editor; and Ronnie Dennis, sports editor. Julia Stamey, business manager, and Carolyn Price, associate business manager, directed a staff of twelve.

A new challenge came to the 1963 staff members when the 1962 Pemican received the following awards: Certificate of Merit, National School Yearbook Association; All-American Rating, National Scholastic Press Association; and the Medalist Rank from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association.

Collecting and editing news, writing features and sports stories, selling advertising, and composing editorials—these duties kept the Pointer staff members busy as they published ten issues of the newspaper for the year. Patty Lewis, editor-in-chief, and Diana Deyo, associate editor, directed the work of the editorial staff, with assistance from Miss Eleanor Young, adviser. Members of the business staff, headed by Kaye Benfield, business manager, Brenda Riley, associate business manager, and Mrs. Lyda Sowers, adviser, sold advertisements to help finance the Pointer. Other members of the staff included Jimmy Epting, circulation manager, Jerry McDowell, bookkeeper, and John Womack, photographer.

STUDENT COUNCIL OFFICERS AND ADVISER:

Student Council

Student Council's year was filled with projects which stressed school spirit and participation of students in school activities. The group provided a "Thought for the Day" for classrooms, sponsored Teacher Appreciation Week, Club of the Month, and the annual Talent Show. SC also guided the work of the Inter-club Council, an organization composed of all the clubs in school and committed to the task of stimulating club activities.

Divided into Upper and Lower House, SC was directed by Ronnie Taylor, president; Carole Norman, vice-president; Tully Crockett, secretary-treasurer; and Miss Louise Hunter, adviser. During the year delegates attended the state conference in Charlotte, the southeastern meeting in Richmond, and the national convention in Pasadena, California.

NHS members meet national standards

NHS OFFICERS: Betsey Price, treasurer; Betty Jo Vaughn, secretary; Bobbi Ballow, president; Carole Norman, vice-president.

Twice during the school year a portion of the upperclassmen were inducted into the National Honor Society. Each new member pledged himself "to induce others to aspire to scholarly habits, worthy service and active leadership, and to maintain upright character." After the impressive candle-light ceremony, the members, with their parents, enjoyed a reception in the home economics living room. Much credit for the impressive induction was due to Miss Maxalynn Mourane, adviser.

The group maintained a program filled with activity. At the beginning of the year, members gave a coke party for the faculty and presented each teacher with a gift. In co-operation with the Beta Club, NHS sponsored College Day. Throughout the year, the group maintained a tutoring service to benefit students who needed coaching in any subject. To finance these worthwhile undertakings, members sold stationery and calling cards.

BETA CLUB OFFICERS: Susanna Bell, secretary; Ivan Crissman, treasurer; Scott Hester, vice-president; Allison Shivers, president.

Beta Club members combined scholastic achievement with service for High Point Central High in 1962-63. These outstanding students sponsored College Day, held a tea for teachers, served refreshments at PTA Open House, and, in co-operation with the School Board, conducted a car - counting service at the high school. In the spring, delegates represented the local organization at the state convention of Beta clubs in Raleigh.

Acceptance into the Beta Club was based on a student's maintaining a 3.00 minimum quality point average as a senior, or a 3.50 average as a junior. Miss Geneva Highfill sponsored and advised the group, and Allison Shivers was president. Other officers included Scott Hester, vice-president; Susanna Bell, secretary, and Ivan Crissman, treasurer.

Masque and Gavel, national honor society to encourage high quality speech and dramatics, participated in an activity-filled 1962-63 school year. Under the guidance of Gail Leonard, president, Harriet Hardee, vice-president Sonya Kennedy, secretary; Eugenia Monroe, treasurer; David Pruette, sergeant-at-arms, and Miss Goodman, adviser, Masque and Gavel members caused much rivalry by entering a float in the Homecoming contest. They presented a talent assembly for the student body, and in the spring attended the State Speech Festival at Wake Forest College. Highlight of the year, the annual trip to Washington, D. C., was shared and enjoyed with the speech classes. Many activities and special projects were designed by the Masque and Gavel members at their bi-monthly meetings to elevate the speech habits and standards of the student body.

NFL members achieve

National Forensic League's year was crowded with activities which emphasized better speech and the promotion of leadership. Advised by Mrs. Roberts, the group participated in three NFL speech tournaments, conducted a district and a final district congress, and attended an official congress in Johnson City, Tennessee. In the competitions Central High students won five first places in extemporaneous speaking and several superior ratings in other phases of public address.

Realizing the need to extend NFL work, the Central High group organized a new chapter at Allen Jay, a neighboring high school. As a reward for its achievements, the NFL of Central High was acclaimed the leading chapter of the Carolina district, which includes North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, and West Virginia.

Development of good sportsmanship among the students was one of the main goals of the Monogram Club this year. Composed of lettermen in the varsity sports, the organization met semi-weekly under the guidance of Coach Simeon to plan projects of service to the school. The athletes sponsored the "Dad's Day" football game, had charge of posting athletic events, and purchased a much-needed water cooler for the gymnasium. Members also aided the coaching staff in the gymnasium and on the athletic fields. The most important purpose was to help develop at Central High School the "highest athletic standards on a foundation of true sportsmanship and to create a closer bond of fellowship and loyalty between lettermen."

Scholarship, citizenship, and meritorious work on the staff of either the Pemican or the Pointer were the qualities on which students were chosen for membership in Quill and Scroll, international honor society of high school journalists. Chartered in 1957, Quill and Scroll carried out its purpose of encouraging and rewarding individual achievement in journalism and related fields.

Students recommended from the Pointer staff by the advisers, Miss Eleanor Young and Mrs. Lyda Sowers, were Kay Benfield and Diana Deyo. Those recommended from the Pemican staff by Miss Louise Tapp, adviser, included Sandra Barrier, Alice Bissette, Ronnie Dennis, Willi Krapels, Betsey Price, Carolyn Price, Nancy Rankin, Julia Stamey, John Womack, Sallye Woodruff, and Michael Young.

FRENCH CLUB OFFICERS: Peggy Womeldorf, secretary; Joyce Young, treasurer; Kenny Bulla, vice-president; Mark LeVine, president.

Objectives of the French Club were to promote among second-year French students a better understanding of France, its people, language, and customs. With the help of exchange student Alexis Hautefeuille, of suburban Paris, the group had a better opportunity than ever to accomplish its aim. Alexis spoke to the members about life in his country, giving them an insight into French thought not found in textbooks.

French Club members highlighted the year with a banquet in European style. Officers of the organization were Mark LeVine, president; Kenny Bulla, vice-president; Peggy Womeldorf, secretary; and Joyce Young, treasurer. Miss Mary McDavid advised and sponsored the club during 1962-63.

FBLA aids teachers, seeks business goal

Members of the Future Business Leaders of America promoted their interest in business through study and practical application of their skills. The group rendered valuable service to teachers by typing and duplicating materials. To finance their organization, the FBLA had a candy sale. In March delegates attended the state convention of FBLA at Durham, N. C.

At their monthly meetings, FBLA members had opportunities to investigate business opportunities and to mingle with members of the business world. Leaders for 1962-63 included Brenda Riley, president; Helen Vick, vice-president; Luretta Brawley, secretary-treasurer; Rhonda Upton, historian; and Brenda Wilson, corresponding secretary. Advisers were Miss Medford and Mrs. Williamson.

FHA OFFICERS: Jane Grimsley, president; Cheryl Martin, vice-president; Marilyn Roach, secretary; Jean Ruth, treasurer.

Future Homemakers of America placed special emphasis upon homemaking appreciation and worthy home membership. The group met every fourth Thursday to present programs and to seek new ways of furthering their interest in home economics. As a special project for the year, the girls helped the senior citizens of the community. Another activity was planning and executing formal teas for organizations and guests of the school. In April four delegates, accompanied by Mrs. Gwendolyn K. Griffin and Mrs. Mozelle K. Williams, advisers, attended the state convention of FHA in Raleigh. Officers serving the Central High chapter of FHA were Jane Grimsley, president; Cheryl Martin, vice-president; Marilyn Roach, secretary; and Jean Ruth, treasurer.

Future Teachers of America members, with Mrs. Martha Rogers and Miss Nancy Massengill as advisers, made professional gains during the twenty-fifth anniversary year of FTA. Members served at banquets, assisted teachers with the American Education Week program, acted as guides and ushers at PTA Open House in November, and attended the state convention of teachers in the spring.

The group met once a month with the following officers in charge: Nancy Rankin, president; Gail Morgan, vice-president; Judy Fletcher, secretary; Kay Weininger, treasurer; and Julia Stamey, historian. FTA's varied programs helped in cultivating the qualities essential in a good teacher and in fostering the development of student leadership.

Hi-Y clubs encourage clean living,

Hi-Y members sought to maintain and extend their standards of Christian character by worthy service. To raise funds for the World Service project, the boys sold candy mints. Acting as hosts, Hi-Y members distributed oranges to visiting football and basketball teams and referees. They participated in other service work for the athletic department and gave an award for outstanding performance to the football team. Other services included acting as referees for the Biddy Basketball League at the YMCA. Ronnie Dennis, president, and John Cheek, secretary, represented the group at the Blue Ridge convention. Delegates also attended the Interstate Convention in Charleston, South Carolina, where Harry Lester served as president.

New Anchor Club has proficiency goals

As the newest service club at Central High, the Anchor Club contributed well to the improvement of school and community. Meeting twice each month, the group arranged programs designed to help the school and community and to develop initiative and leadership in its members. As a special project, the club helped to arrange the Pilot Club Christmas party and made favors for the tables. Members also assisted the crippled children. Adviser for the club was Miss Joyce, and the following girls were officers: Joyce Ellington, president; Deanie Yates, vice-president; Shelby Phillips, secretary; and Jean Haney, treasurer. The work of each member to improve school and community made the name "Anchor Club" synonymous with service.

Library Club fosters worthwhile reading

LIBRARY CLUB OFFICERS: Marsha Cox, president; Evie Smith, reporter; Elizabeth Bryden, vice-president; Vickie Jones, secretary-treasurer.

Contributing to the smooth operation of the library, several students dedicated one hour a day to learning about librarianship through practical work at the circulation desk. From this group the library club was formed—the purpose of which is “to attract a high type of student to the field of library service and to recruit future librarians.”

Activities of the club included repairing worn books and aiding students and teachers in research work. Officers were Marsha Cox, president; Elizabeth Bryden, vice-president; Betty Gibbs, secretary-treasurer; and Evie Smith, reporter. Adviser was Mrs. Nancy K. Poston. Delegates attending the meeting of the North Carolina Library Association in Durham were Elizabeth Bryden and Ray Hester.

Junior Civinettes strove to accomplish aims of service to Central High and to the community. The active girls planted tulips, donated several bulletin boards and a new teachers' directory for the school, and conducted a safe-driving campaign during the fall months. Delegates attended the club convention in Burlington in April.

To aid in community service, the Civinettes held a clothing drive, supplied a needy family with food, and visited several rest homes. To finance their projects, the members assisted in the fruitcake sale. Officers were Faye Setzer, president; Carolyn Price, vice-president; Joan Simmons, secretary; Mary Lynn Wagner, treasurer; Judy Israel, historian; and Martha Dover, chaplain.

Promoting an extensive safety campaign as a service to school and community distinguished the Safe-Teen Drivers' Club in its second year. Guided by Mr. Wade E. Marlette, the boys met twice a month for the purpose of planning and promoting their safety campaign. Through the use of posters, slogans, and other devices, they sought to promote and improve safer driving habits among students. Always they sought to maintain good driving manners and a strong sense of responsibility in driving both on city streets and on highways. Officers for 1962-63 included Chalmas Clark, president; David Robinson, vice-president; Ronnie Carroll, secretary-treasurer; and Phil Davis, sergeant-at-arms.

and to community

Outstanding service to school and community distinguished the Junior Civitan Club in its third year. Civitans maintained the athletic events sign in front of the gymnasium and sponsored the spring clean-up drive. To finance their service projects, the group sold Halloween candy and participated in the Civitan fruitcake sale at Christmas. From their profits, the boys donated generously to the support of Lake Waccamaw Boys' Home. During the year, delegates from the local club attended conventions in Greensboro and Durham, respectively.

The Junior Civitan Club was one of the largest in the school, having a membership of fifty before mid-winter inductions. New members were accepted into the ranks twice during the year. Club officers under the guidance of Mr. Bobby Bean were Bob Cameron, president; Jimmy Adams, vice-president; Ronnie Gardner, secretary; and Dan Benfield, treasurer.

JCL promotes study of ancient culture

JCL OFFICERS: Row 1—Sandra Dillard, program chairman; Gloria Halstead, secretary; Phil Hunter, president; Sheila Whitlow, treasurer. Row 2—Sharon Jackson, program chairman; Herb Jamieson, vice-president; Miss Hunter, adviser.

Endeavoring to hand on the torch of classical civilization to the modern world, the Junior Classical League concentrated on the study of classical selections to meet their common goal. Members of the group heard lectures, participated in discussions, saw pictures, and enacted plays to help them visualize the manner in which the ancient Romans lived. Advised by Miss Louise Hunter, Latin teacher, the group held monthly meetings in Room 214. Old members were called masters, and new members were designated as slaves — in imitation of ancient Roman society. During the year a delegation, accompanied by Miss Hunter, attended the state meeting of the Junior Classical League at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill. Highlight of the year was a Roman banquet, prepared and served in the ancient style.

JCL MEMBERS: Row 1—Clapp, Coble, Ross, Royals, Perkinson, Utt, Vincent, Mickey, Oliver, Wagonner, Morgan. ## Youth Volunteers have varied projects

Nancy Kennedy, Jennifer Carr, Lannie Ross, Judy Fletcher, and Nancy Rankin watch and learn the proper way to prepare a hospital bed.

Assisting elderly patients is only one of the many tasks performed by Kathy Taylor and Barbara Morrison.

"Service" was the watchword of the American Red Cross Youth Volunteers as they performed duties at the High Point Memorial Hospital and the Presbyterian Home year-round. During the summer the girls served at the Orthopedic Clinic, the Colfax Well-Baby Clinic, and the Bloodmobile.

Selected from a large number of applicants, the new girls received on-the-job training as well as classroom instruction. At the close of the training, the girls received their caps in an impressive ceremony in February 1963.

Other Youth Volunteers served in a special summer program at the Salisbury VA Hospital and the local hospital.

Besides the Youth Volunteer Service, the local Red Cross chapter offered standard first-aid training through physical education classes. Certificates were issued to students upon completion of the course.

of Key Club members

Key Club at Central High made this year one of the most serviceable in its history. Meetings were held on Wednesday evenings with President David Conrad as leader. Assisting him were Harry Lester, vice-president; David Pruette, secretary; and Eddie Edwards, treasurer. Macky Walker was chaplain, while Mr. Bays and Mr. Myers served as advisers. Many of the Key Club activities were everyday jobs, such as raising and lowering the flag, selling programs at football and basketball games, and directing traffic at Homecoming and on College Day. Others were more permanent, such as putting fertilizer to the grass and buying plants for the school grounds. At Christmas the boys packed fruit baskets for the needy, and they also turned their money-raising talent toward helping the United Fund. The Kiwanis-sponsored group raised project money by selling fruitcakes and washing cars.

One of the many noteworthy contributions of the Key Club to the school was a new chain-link fence, which is being admired by Dickie Dickens, Harry Lester, and Bill Scott.

Reggie Lowe and Virgil Carrick, members of the Key Club, sweep the floor during intermission at a basketball game.

In their headquarters above the auditorium, Radio Club members initiated a program of teaching and learning code after school hours and otherwise increasing their technical knowledge of radio. The group had a 17-25 output on A.M. Their equipment — an HT-37 transmitter and an SX—111 receiver — was licensed by the FCC with the call sign W4SQK. During the year an antenna was added to the equipment. A regular duty of Radio Club members was to set up microphones for assemblies. Several members of the club made a special study leading toward the ham license.

Meetings were held on Monday afternoons. Officers were Charles Hayworth, president; Jimmy Knight, vice-president; and Pam Lias, secretary-treasurer. Adviser was Mr. Sheffield.

SCIENCE CLUB OFFICERS: James Carter, president; Mike Waggoner, treasurer; Wray Hodgkin, vice-president; Willi Krapels, secretary.

Stimulated by the recent developments in space travel, members of the Science Club engaged in studies that led them beyond classroom science. Through the use of films, illustrative material, and practical demonstrations, the members became increasingly aware of the wonders of the universe. Illustrated lectures by science specialists were an added stimulus to further investigations in both the biological and physical sciences. With Mr. Larry R. Clark as adviser, the group wrote and adopted a constitution for the organization. Meetings were held twice a month in the science laboratories of the new wing. A special project of the club was sponsorship of the annual Science Fair.

Y-Teens experience Christian fellowship

Concentrating on service to others, the Y-Teens visited the sick, prepared fruit baskets for shut-ins, and helped with the candy sale and the White Cane sale. Guided by the YWCA teenage director, Mrs. Donnie R. Hunt, and numerous advisers, the Y-Teens stressed the growth of the individual in friendship with people of all races, religions, and nationalities. Meetings were held weekly by the three groups of girls — sophomores, juniors, and seniors. In February delegates attended the Y-Teen Conference in Greensboro, and plans were made to send a delegation to the Summer Conference in Winston-Salem. In all their activities the Y-Teens sought to realize in their everyday lives the highest ideals of personal and social living.

SPANISH CLUB OFFICERS: Brenda Kindley, program chairman; Nancy Pearson, treasurer; Geri Buck, secretary; Jerry Lawson, vice-president; Coy Williard, president.

Spanish club members extended their knowledge of Spanish-speaking countries by hearing guests from abroad speak at meetings. A Spanish fiesta and picnic held a place on the club agenda, along with a Homecoming float that placed second in the parade. At Christmas the group joined in singing Spanish Christmas carols. The big week for the linguists came in the spring with National Language Week, when Spanish Club members joined the French Club and the Junior Classical League to bring an International program to Central High.

Officers for 1962-63 included Coy Williard, president; Jerry Lawson, vice-president; Geri Buck, secretary; and Nancy Pearson, treasurer. Miss Dolores Joseph advised the organization, and Brenda Kindley was program chairman.

Members of the Vocational-Industrial Club combined vocational training with service to school and community in their third year. Sponsored by the State Vocational Department in Raleigh and directed by Mr. W. K. Whitesell, the boys met twice a month. They entered a float in the Homecoming parade, repaired and rebuilt broken toys for the Christmas Cheer Fund, and executed projects during the spring for the school. In October the group attended a conference in Greensboro, and in April a delegation attended the state convention, also in Greensboro. Officers for 1962-63 were Hugh Norman, president; Walter Steelman, vice-president; Leon Adams, secretary; and Alvin Spivey, treasurer.

Student assistants in the four offices of Central High performed duties necessary to the efficient operation of the school. Girls in the General Office greeted visitors, ran errands, recorded data, unpacked and stamped textbooks, and sorted mail. Student workers in the Dean's Office kept attendance records, issued tardy slips, and typed the daily bulletin. Guidance helpers typed letters, recorded data, and made appointments. Assistants in Mr. Simeon's office answered the telephone, ran errands, alphabetized lists, and kept the files in good order.

Students who spent their study periods working in the offices helped to ease the heavy responsibilities of administrators and counselors. They contributed to the daily success of the school and at the same time gained valuable experience in dealing with the public.

Students aid school by driving buses

Every school day eight boys were responsible for the most precious cargo there is — the school children of the community. These boys were the students that drove the school buses. With Mrs. Jackson as their adviser, the boys took on this huge responsibility for a small salary each month and performed their duties well. In fulfilling their responsibilities, the boys rendered a valuable service to both school and community.

Majors in business education, the student secretaries aided the teachers in producing educational materials. Upon request, the secretaries would type stencils, duplicate tests, and make review sheets and other supplementary materials. Advised by Miss Sandra Medford, the girls performed their work with accuracy, promptness, and courtesy.

typing and selling

Student secretaries in the guidance office were among the busiest people around school. They typed letters, kept the files in order, answered the telephone, ran errands, and were generally helpful to the counselors, Miss Haywood and Mrs. McCurry.

Cafeteria helpers received their lunches in return for their aid in cleaning trays and washing dishes. They also had duties in the dining room, seeing that tables were clear before each lunch period. Several students served as cashiers in the lunch lines.

Library, radio workers serve school

To supply students with school needs, fifteen girls, under the direction of Mrs. Dorothy Whitesell, volunteered their study time to work in the school store. Three girls helped during first period, and two girls helped each hour from the second period until the close of school. By selling school supplies, the girls rendered a helpful service to students and at the same time gained valuable sales experience.

Advised by Mrs. Nancy K. Poston, the library staff members assisted with routine work in the library. Checking books in and out, filing cards for the card catalogue, preparing books for circulation, placing books on shelves, and working on library bulletin boards were the main duties of these students. Their assistance enabled the librarian to have more time to help students in the selection of books and research materials.

Broadcasting news, music, and weather reports, members of the radio staff worked from the WHPS station at school. The work offered excellent opportunity for the boys interested in radio electronics to apply their knowledge and at the same time perform a service for the school. Staff members endeavored to keep the broadcasting standards of the school's station high. High Point Central High School is one of the few schools in the state having its own station.

Advised by Mr. Sheffield, the projection staff members set up movie and slide projectors and ran films for the teachers. At least one boy every period assisted Mr. Sheffield. The boys also showed movies in the auditorium to scheduled classes.

Supervisors, building employees make

Three behind-the-scenes gentlemen contributed greatly to the smooth operation of Central High School during 1962-63. Mr. Walter F. Jones, purchasing agent, bought all the supplies for the city schools. Buying equipment for the new wing was an added responsibility for 1962-63.

Repairing clocks and replacing light bulbs, reconditioning furniture and keeping the lawn were among the duties of Mr. Jack M. Cox, superintendent of building and grounds. The placing of equipment in the new wing was an additional duty of Mr. Jack Cox and his assistants.

Mr. Ring, nightwatchman, fulfilled his duties of safeguarding the building at night. He was always on hand to turn out the lights after night events, to check the doors, and to inspect the grounds. The presence of Mr. Ring was re-assuring to those who practiced at night for plays and other events during the school year.

successful season

FOOTBALL TEAM MANAGERS: Theron Grubb, Nat Oliver, John Tripp.

Furnishing thrills and excitement from the season's beginning to its end, the '62 gridders compiled a 5-4-1 overall record. The Bison finished fourth in the Central 4-A Conference race and were rated tenth in the state at the end of a rugged ten-game schedule.

Danny Benfield and Clark Yokely made All-Conference while Yokely and John Cheek were named to the All-Star squad.

Consistency was the greatest lack of the Bison as they appeared unbeatable at times and weak at others. A powerful rushing offense, comparable to any in the state, could not be limited to less than two touchdowns per game while the greatest margin of defeat was by only eight points. The season's climax came for coaches Herb and Joe Hipps when the Bison totally stampeded over arch-rival Greensboro Grimsley by a score of 25-7.

REIDSVILLE: Unveiling a powerful "meat-grinding" offense, the Bison powered over the Golden Lions by a 14-6 score. A big and vastly improved Reidsville team could not stop the big High Point forward wall as they constantly opened holes for backs Dwaine Rowe and C. Yokely.

GRAY: Overconfidence spelled defeat for the Bison as little Gray High School edged by the mighty Bison in the first 4-A Conference game of the season. John Cheek ran 35 yards and passed 65 yards to Danny Idol to account for the Bison scoring.

DURHAM: An inspired Bison team, led by J. Cheek, trampled a highly-ranked Bulldog eleven. Cheek not only proved to be the spark for the offensive unit but turned in a commendable defensive effort from his safety spot. The entire defensive backfield and line limited the deadly Durham aerial attack to a total of only 24 yards. "We seemed to catch fire in that second half," stated Coach Hippi, as his boys came out of the dressing room and turned a skimpy 7-6 lead into a 21-6 runaway.

REYNOLDS: Again Bowman-Gray Stadium proved to jinx the Bison as they dropped their second conference battle to R. J. Reynolds of Winston-Salem. A vicious single-wing offensive attack in the second quarter proved too much a margin for High Point to overcome. All scoring took place in the first half, leaving the second half as a battering defensive unit. Defensive standouts for the Bison were Mike Helmstetler, David Thomas, and David Pruette.

LEXINGTON: Homecoming night was a drowsy night at Albion-Millis Stadium as the mighty Bison fell asleep and allowed the Lexington Yellowjackets to come from behind and tie the locals in a 4-A Conference clash. After building a 13-0 lead in the first three quarters of action, the Bison seemed to go to sleep while Lexington rallied to a 13-13 tie.

SALISBURY: The Bison demolished the Salisbury Yellowjackets as they secured their first conference win of the season. A stubborn defense limited the hopeless Jackets to 9 yards rushing while the powerful Bison offense netted 357 in the 21-0 victory. Scoring for the Bison were Rowe, a pass from Cheek to Tommy Myers, and Eddie Edwards with a sparkling 45 yard run.

PAGE: A stiff pass defense and steady ground offense combined to hijack the Page Pirate ship of a victory flag, and High Point sailed away with another 4-A Conference victory. A pitch-out pass play from Cheek to C. Hill to Freddie Barrett and an intercepted fumble in mid-air by M. Helmstetler proved to be the two touchdown difference in the otherwise tight contest.

CHARLOTTE HARDING: High Point Central High's defense was as loose as a wet noodle in the second half, enabling Harding to outscore the Bison 20-14. Even the potent Bison offense couldn't crank up after intermission. Capitalizing on this, Harding reversed the Bison lead from 14-13 at half-time by adding another TD to their side of the scoreboard.

GREENSBORO GRIMSLEY: An inspired and determined Bison team dominated 48 minutes of raining football, trouncing the Whirlies 25-7. The first Bison drive was climaxed by a Clark Yokely touchdown. As soon as the Bison regained possession, they again marched for a TD — this time with Steve Hudson scoring. A recovered fumble on the Greensboro 18 enabled the Bison to score again and enjoy a comfortable 19-0 halftime lead.

Each team scored once in the second half, producing the final 25-7 score.

The victory was a team effort, both offensively and defensively for the Bison. Scouting by Coach Ray Correll was also a big factor in the victory. This one overwhelming victory decided the season's success or failure. The season was a SUCCESS.

BURLINGTON: The final game of the season was lost to the Burlington Bulldogs by a 22-21 score. With only 3 seconds left, Bulldog Jim Donnan kicked a 30 yard field goal to provide the margin of defeat. It looked like a Bison victory as the locals scored a final touchdown with only 32 seconds left in the game. However, an equally determined crew from Burlington marched 40 yards to set up the game-winning field goal.

With little recognition but with much hard work, the 1962 Junior Varsity football team had a successful season. Coached by Joe Don Myers, the JV team displayed a record of seven wins and one loss. They possessed a quality that was the key to their continuous victories—the quality of excellent teamwork displayed throughout the season. Burlington, Page, R. J. Reynolds, Grimsley, Salisbury, and Gray all felt the power of the Junior Varsity team, while only Lexington managed to get by without defeat. The overpowering play of the team showed up in statistics that revealed 110 points for High Point, with only 28 points showing for all the opponents. With Ricky Lutz calling signals and Barry Cook doing the punting, T. Ragan, J. Hardy, J. Hurley, F. Perryman, D. Morgan, and B. Kester led the fight for victory. One source of strength for the team was the tough defense that kept the opposition from scoring in almost every game. The highlight of the year and the game that all will remember was the game with Greensboro Grimsley in which Central High boys rolled over the Whirlies, making High Point the victor in both the Junior Varsity and Varsity games against this school.

LYNCHBURG (VA.): Returning to the home court, the Bison regained the winning touch and scored a resounding 67-60 win over E. C. Glass High School. Four of the five Bison starters hit double figures as the locals displayed the most balanced attack of the season.

GRAY: Encountering Gray High of Winston-Salem in the first 4-A Conference game of the season, the Bison absolutely blasted Gray off the court. Again Quinn Koontz's 22 points and the air-tight defense of the Bison were major factors in the victory.

Much to the pleasure of the High Point fans, Quinn Koontz lays the ball in the basket for two more points.

in many tight games

RALEIGH: High Point Central experienced a miserable night in the State's capital as the Raleigh Caps edged the Bison by a 44-41 margin. High Point hit only 35.9 per cent of its shots from the floor while the Caps burned up the nets at a 50 per cent shooting pace.

PAGE: Led by Gil Ford with 21 points, the Black Bison sank the Page victory ship and obtained an easy 56-33 win. The Bison out-rebounded, out-shot, and out-played an inadequate Page team while remaining undefeated in 4-A Conference play.

R. J. REYNOLDS: Guards Dave Sherrill and Gil Ford combined to help provide a big 4-A Conference victory over R. J. Reynolds. Sherrill's pro-defensive job on Reynolds' scoring ace, David Stroupe, and Ford's 18 points were two highlights in one of the most thrilling games of the season.

Hampered by lack of height but endowed by an excess of good ballhandlers, the JV team displayed a 2-7 overall record at Pemican press time. The two victories came at the expense of Thomasville and Burlington, and most losses were by small margins. James Cumby and Eddie Edwards were the two scoring aces.

Hampered by inexperience and by having to forfeit in several weight classes, the 1963 matmen, under the direction of Coach Herb Hipps, displayed a record of no wins and four losses at Pemican press time. However, there were several bright spots on the team: namely, the fact that Ronnie Beeson, Auman Reames, Gary Honbarrier, Mike Meisky, and Trip Sizemore had each lost no more than one individual match. Captain of the 1963 team for the second consecutive year was senior Gary Honbarrier.

Fielding a young but hustling nine, the Bison diamondmen under Coach Don Myers managed a record of five wins and nine losses for the 1962 season. The Bison were victorious over Salisbury, Page, and Burlington twice. The most outstanding victory of the season was over Greensboro in a close 6-5 contest. Robert Haywood led the local hitters with two homers, and pitcher Joe Rising was credited with the victory.

Pitching proved to be the weakest department while hitting and fielding remained on par. The most consistent hitter for the Bison was David Sherrill while Tommy Myers led the pitching department. Dayton Briggs, Butch Wolfe, Haywood and Rising were the outstanding seniors but were aided by able underclassmen Charlie Hill, Keith Connor, Jad Davis, Myers and Sherrill.

JV team learns fundamentals of baseball

Dwain Rowe and Bobby Bradner, members of the JV Baseball team, warm up with new bats.

Junior varsity diamondmen of High Point Central High School earned an even season in 1962 with a five won and five lost record. Under the direction of Coach Danny Roberts, the team was partially made up of varsity players that were used in this capacity for more experience. Bill Ratliff, Jerry Cook, David Pruette, and Jad Davis were among those who gave the team its vital power and kept it alive. The added experience gained by these boys in the games they played on junior varsity made them valuable assets for the oncoming baseball season.

Diligent practice and determination on the part of the players brought only limited success to the 1962 golf team. Although the team compiled a losing record in the Central 4-A Conference, Steve Jaeger, Ray Cooper, Mike Smith, and Mike Hedrick represented the team well in the State meet at Chapel Hill, with High Point placing 17th.

Ray Cooper won the "Most Outstanding Golfer" award for his low scores and fine sportsmanship throughout the season. In Greensboro, Steve Jaeger fired a 68 to set a record and claim the best performance for a single match.

Several individuals led the Bison cindermen to a creditable season on the oval under the supervision of Joe and Herb Hipps. The locals placed 5th in both the 4-A Conference and Sectional meets and chalked up 2 points at the State meet. Jim Simeon, Hugh Norman, Robert Lee, and Ernest Green in track events and Ken Truitt, Robert Bivens, and Ken Rich in field events all placed in the Sectional Meet. This same delegation represented High Point in the State where Simeon and Lee captured 4th places in their respective events.

Reviving the endurance-testing sport of cross-country this past fall, Roger DeMont coached an eager team composed of seven boys. Every afternoon practice consisted of a  $2\frac{1}{4}$  mile race or a  $3\frac{1}{2}$  mile workout through Emerywood. The team participated in only one meet, at R. J. Reynolds, before the State meet and were handicapped by inexperience. Robert Lee won individual honors by placing 16th out of a field of 160 entries in the State meet at Chapel Hill. Other members of the team were Charles Morgan, Ronnie Dennis, Ivan Crissman, Ralph Smith, Benny Farmer, and James Voncannon.

Young netters look to coming season

Without crowds but with drive and determination, the 1962 netmen displayed a fair season with a record of two wins and four losses in the Central 4-A Conference. Captain Bill Taylor won the "Most Outstanding Tennis Player" award.

Bill Taylor, George Armfield, Windley Dunbar, and Randy Burge traveled to Chapel Hill with Coach Wade Marlette for the State matches. Taylor and Armfield came out victorious in the first round competition, making a creditable showing for High Point.

Under the direction of Dick Fagen, swimming was reorganized as a sport at Central High School during the winter of 1962-1963. At Pemican press time, the High Point tankmen had defeated Page twice and Reynolds once. Zealous practice at the YWCA every evening produced several consistent first-place winners including Frank Perryman, Bobby Gray, and Donald Hekler. Other members of the team winning first places, either individually or on relay teams, were Mike Koonce, Dick Helm, Bill Croom, Steve Hudson, Butch Kimsey, and Jimmy Howard.

Girls' Athletic Association at Central High was a successful blend of a sports and service organization. The girls met twice weekly to prepare for such inter-school activities as the Volleyball Sportsday at Page High and the spring Playday meet at High Point Central. Active club members also played intra-club games from speedball to basketball to badminton. In all, the Association took part in ten different sports activities. GAA girls popped pop corn for all home basketball and football games, took hiking and bowling trips, and collected money for UNICEF. Officers filling the Association slate were Linda Bryson, president, Joyce Young, vice-president; Linda Tieman, secretary; and Janice Voncannon, treasurer. Miss Pat Hester served as advisor.

Bobbi Ballow and Carole Norman listen to the scholastic requirements for Western Carolina on College Day.

College Day offers stimulus to progress

College preparatory juniors and seniors, eager to learn more about their future schools, filled the girls' gym on College Day, October 2. Representatives from 38 colleges were present to help decide what type of higher education would best fit their needs. During the day juniors and seniors talked with representatives and received application blanks, together with pamphlets, handbooks, and catalogues containing important information concerning the colleges. All of the representatives stressed the importance of doing good work in high school.

Senior members of the student groups that sponsored College Day—Beta Club, and National Honor Society—acted as hosts and hostesses to the representatives who were served refreshments in the home economics dining room.

Council sponsors 'Bonanza of Talent'

"Bonanza of Talent" was the theme of the annual Student Council Talent Show. And it was truly that. Emceed by Mike Harwood, the program included seventeen acts that held the audience spellbound throughout the performance. Jim Hart, Jerry Marin, and Gene Kester, as the singing Echoes, re-created the old days of the West as they sang "Colorado Trail." A quartette composed of Larry Smith, Nick Fountain, Bobby Miller, and David Traynham combined talents to sing several modern songs. The Boys' Octet presented popular numbers, while talented banjo player Mark Le Vine played several ballads, including "Tom Dooley" and "Where Have All The Flowers Gone?" Two groups—Society Seven and Sensational Five—sang popular songs. Another feature of the show was a Dave Gardner type of comedy act by Jay Burton. Supporting music for the show was furnished by the Commodore Dance Band under the direction of Mr. David Carter.

Seniors stage comedy 'The Show-Off'

Brantley Kearns, Bobbi Ballow, Dianne Martin, and Judy Fletcher rehearse their parts in "The Show Off."

Prompted by Rhonda Williams and Peggy Elder, Brenda Leary, Brantley Kearns, and Frankie Ross rehearse their parts in the senior play.

Jan Samet shows Janet Peace where to sign, while Judy Fletcher and Frank Fairchild act as witnesses.

"The Show-off," a three-act comedy, was presented by the seniors on February 15 and 16. Director was Miss Ruth Goodman.

Brantley Kearns played Aubrey Piper, the show-off, who lived in a dream world. Bobbi Ballow and Janet Peace portrayed Mrs. Fisher, the only one who spoke out against Aubrey. Brenda Leary and Dianne Martin played Amy Fisher, Aubrey's girl, who found no fault with Aubrey. Gail Leonard and Judy Fletcher played Clara, married daughter of the Fishers, and Frank Fairchild portrayed Frank Hyland, Clara's husband, who was a daydreamer. Other characters included Joe Fisher (played by Keith Yokley), Mr. Fisher (played by Steve Deal), Mr. Gill (played by Frank Ross), and Mr. Rogers (played by Jan Samet). After many tense situations the conflicts were reconciled, and the play ended happily for all.

Juniors, Claudette Beeson, Ann Young, John Robbins, and Gary Turner rehearse for their play "The Green Vine."

Five relatives and a ghost in one house made a dramatic situation when the Junior Class presented the comedy, "The Green Vine," on November 16 and 17, under the direction of Miss Eleanor Tapp and Mrs. Barbara Laughinghouse. To add to the suspense of the play, each relative had his own problem. Mary Tennant (played by Claudette Beeson and Pat Hammer) was in love with Geoffrey Cannon (Gary Turner), but her cousin Peggy Mason (Ricky Jane Collins and Johnne Whicker) was secretly married to him. Myrtle Kenan (Katie Heer and Ann Young), Tom Powers (John Robbins), and Peter Brand (Desmond Fowler) were all in need of financial aid.

Throughout the play, the ghost of George Brand (Jeffry Willard) spoke to different members of the group. They all thought that one among them was talking, and that fact almost led to blows. Subsequent events brought a happy ending for all.

Mary Lu Lloyd tries to prove a point to Katie Heer, John Robbins, and Jeff Willard.

Phil Jones and John Robbins close a deal with a handshake while Pat Hamner, Katie Heer, and Jeff Willard look on.

"Ebb Tide" was the theme of the Junior-Senior prom. The spring occasion called for members of special committees to construct decorations, paint murals, and string fish nets filled with balloons across the ceiling of the cafeteria to turn the place into a veritable seaside paradise. Music for the occasion was provided by a professional combo, the Continentals. Banjo-picking Mark Levine, home-spun humorist Brantley Kearns, and clarinetist Steve Setzer, who played "Stranger on the Shore," came up with very successful program entertainment.

Sparkling Dan Stoddard emceed the presentation of Junior and Senior class officers and their dates to the large group of dancers and guests. Faculty members, parents of the officers, and chaperones shared the party with the new teachers at Central High, who were special guests. The dance was perhaps the culmination of high school social life for graduating seniors, but juniors could look forward to the 1963 Junior-Senior.

CHS with memories of three happy years

“. . . and He increased in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and men.”—
Luke 2:52.

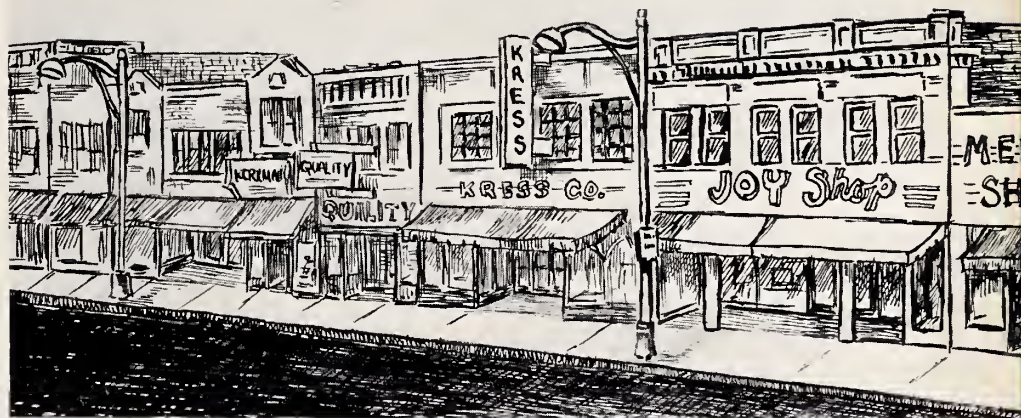

The above passage illustrates the development—mentally, physically, spiritually, and socially—which all of us have experienced in some measure during the past year. As we depart from the CHS building and take leave of our friends, we carry with us happy memories of days well-spent and duties well-performed.

Sechrest Funeral Home is unexcelled in the South for modern design and facilities. Located in park-like setting of 3½ acres. Paved and lighted parking for 100 cars. Spacious Chapel seats over 200.

Sechrest Service has been described as "excellence based on experience." And it is true that since 1897 our constant ideal has been that through beauty, tenderness and reverence in final rites, every funeral shall clearly express a family's deepest love for a departed one. Whether arrangements are for a modest or elaborate ceremony, Sechrest creates an impressive tribute, complete in every detail and within every family's means.

THANK YOU . . .

To you, Dr. Scott, goes our first word of appreciation. Your support and co-operation during our "dead-line" days made this book possible. Teachers, thank you for your help with the picture and Pemican money. Your tolerance of interruptions, and especially your patience the day the Pemicans came out, proved that you really have the interest of the school yearbook at heart.

Students, thank you for putting up with our not so-efficient picture schedule and for helping us out with information.

Of our staff, first, we'd like to thank our photographers—John, Dickie, and Paul. Thank you for putting up with us even when we forgot to tell what kind of pictures we wanted, and you had to do twice the amount of work. To Susie, Willi, David, Judy, Betsey, Nancy R., and Barbara for countless pictures identified—we thank you. We are grateful to our sports editors, Ronnie and Harry, for their comprehensive work in the varied fields of athletics. To Nancy R. and Betsey, for handling the senior statistics so smoothly; to Mike, who proved invaluable to us in every task he undertook, whether large or small; to our typists, Judy, Willi, Anne, and Jenny, for the mountains of accurate copy they typed; to Nancy K., Jack, and Patsy for all the after-school hours they spent on the index—we are deeply grateful. To Kathy, goes a special word of thanks for her superb art.

Our thanks go to the members of the business staff, Carolyn, Jack, Bobbi, Pegge, Becky, Ronda, Judi, Stella, Dianne, Jenny, Liz, and Anne, for upholding the Pemican financial structure—and especially to Julia whose sales rank among the all-time highs.

To our worthy adviser, Miss Tapp, we express our sincere appreciation. With unending patience she has given generously of her time and effort to help us complete the book.

Thank You!

Sandy and Geri
